13:45 VALUATION & ACCOUNTING

Vessel (market) values in many segments remain below historical averages, posing a problem especially for debt-laden ships with excessive loan-to-value-ratios. How are ships currently assessed under discounted cash flow models like those used by shipping banks or by the LTAV? What are the implications for shipowners and banks?

Market value and fair value of ships – will the gap soon disappear?

New IFRS regulations – another nail on the coffin ...?

Stefan Schöniger (KPMG AG, Deal Advisory) | Hartmut Heckert (KPMG AG, Audit)

14:15 CHINESE FINANCING: LEASING SOLUTIONS IN THE SPOTLIGHT

Chinese lessors are probably the fastest expanding source of funding. However, the large deal volumes, preferred by leading institutions, make it more difficult for small and medium-sized shipowners to tap into it. Experts discuss typical structures and requirements for Chinese leasing and the strategy of lessors in the sector.

Panel debate

- Hai Jin, Executive Director, COSCO Shipping Funds
- Cruise Chi, Executive Manager, Bocomm Shipping Leasing (Europe)
- Carsten Stellamanns, Advisor, Dabelstein & Passehl

15:00 SHIPPING BANK UPDATE – OLD RISKS, NEW OPPORTUNITIES

Vast volumes of non-performing loans originated in the previous decade continue to pressure banks. However, huge loan loss provisions made in recent years should allow them to clear out critical parts of their portfolios. How do the banks' ship finance leaders assess the prospects for restructuring, for outright sale of assets and loans as well as for new business going into 2018?

Panel debate

- Oliver Hermanns, Head of Shipping Germany, Crédit Agricole CIB
- Philipp Wünschmann, Leiter Schiffsfinanzierung, Berenberg Bank
- Tobias Zehnter, NordLB

15:30 COFFEE BREAK
